Kamagaki no Konichi

千年陶都・瀬戸の原風景

The Original Scenery of Thousand-Year Pottery Town Seto

Product Features

The "Kamagaki no Komichi," a series of fences made up of stacked kiln tools, is known as the original scenery of the thousand-year pottery town, Seto. The unique pattern of these walls was captured in relief, creating an antique-like appearance. This series symbolizes the "Made in Seto" concept.

It emanates from the blending of Seto's characteristic red clay and the original glaze developed by "Kashiwa craft", resulting in a distinctive aging texture over time. Alongside nostalgic warmth and design, the slip casting technique, allowing for ease of grip, drinkability, and manageability, showcases the craftsmanship unique to this technique.

Not only fitting into the Japanese lifestyle but also seamlessly integrating into the Western way of life, this long-lasting tableware remains unaffected by trends.

Seto is one of Japan's six ancient kilns, recognized as a Japan Heritage site. Many Seto-yaki kilns have gathered since ancient times in the Hora district, where "Kashiwa craft" is located, stacking various forms of kiln tools to create distinctive "kiln walls." Remnants from kiln firing are repurposed to embellish the landscape of daily life. This has become the original scenery of the region, also serving as a tourist attraction. By engaging with nature and drawing from elements like clay, ash, and fire, while also embracing the legacy of craftsmanship in this traditional land of potters, we've woven "Seto's distinctive sustainability" into our creations.

The Joy of Living with Nature and Animals

Product Features

The Japanese belief and culture that gods and spirits reside in nearby nature and things resonate in Scandinavian mythology and lifestyle as well. The concept of our products is to embrace an interior with playful touches incorporating the twists of non-mechanical nature and "burnt" elements, integrating the motifs of plants and animals. Even without arranging flowers, we have curated items that create a comforting space simply by "being present."

- The craft-like glaze textures achieved through Seto's distinctive red clay and our original blended glaze harmonize with Western lifestyles and interiors.
- The unique, plump "roundness" is made possible by the meticulous craftsmanship and the complex shapes reproducible through the distinct slip-casting technique.

The name "Kashiwa craft" (kashiwa means "oak tree") is derived from the acorn tree that grows abundantly behind our workshop. The charming acorns rolling at our feet are a symbol of the nature-rich scenery in Seto.

Founder Hisayuki Iwatsuki, influenced by the golden age of Scandinavian design (1950-60s), was a craft artist who showcased handcrafted-like pieces using the slip-casting technique at Japanese exhibitions and galleries. Moreover, he exported craft products in small batches to Western countries. Currently, the second-generation, Hisato Iwatsuki is developing a more simplified and deformed line.

家族になれる癒しのうつわ

Comforting Vessels to Welcome into your Family

Product Features

Whether alone or with someone, the tableware you reach for when you want to relax shouldn't just be about simple functionality or uniform beauty. The charm of Kashiwa craft's products lies in its intriguing differences resembling freehand-drawn lines.

We promote the concept of "vessels akin to family" that seamlessly blend not only as tableware but also into spaces and interiors, growing dearer with each passing moment. Using clay excavated in Seto and applying our unique blend to the soil and glaze, we honor the artisan's hand in creating "Seto Origin."

Inspired by Nordic design and Japanese folk crafts, this "everyday beauty" is a delicate interweaving of artistic individuality and industrial productivity, brought to life through the craftsman's skill. Our kiln specializes in slip-casting, a technique used to shape container-like objects such as pots and teapots. It demands refined expertise, making it a rarity in Seto in recent years.

Crafting vessels that are easy for the user to acquire and hard to let go of—a creation that fosters an affectionate bond. "Kashiwa craft" continues to inherit such craftsmanship, constantly refining its quality.
